Observers were inclined to think just after he had been finally denied his seat that he could make an even better showing in the race next year than he made in 1926 because he would be considered a martyr. This is doubtful, indeed. It is not believed that Vare under the circumstances could beat Grundy.

After all has been said and done Vare has been pretty badly smeared, even in Pennsylvania. Grundy's prestige has, contrarywise, been immeasurably enhanced the past several weeks. The Democratic candidate, William B. Wilson, came down to Philadelphia ahead of Vare in 1926.

It is in Philadelphia that Vare has his greatest strength. But even there his strong hand has been greatly weakened by the defection of Mayor Mickey.

The campaign on the Senste floor twenty years ago, when a little band of twelve insurgents, led by the late Jonathan P. Dolliver, of Iowa, and Robert M. La Follette, ar., of Wisconsin, adamantly opposed the wool rates of the Payne-Aldrich bill, was recalled in yesterday's debate.

Senator Blaine (Republican Independent), Wisconsin, who carried a losing battle to lower the proposed increases on wool wastes, reviewed the 1909 insurgent opposition and asserted the "so-called farm group" now in the Senate would "meet its Waterloo if it follows a leadership that carries us along the way with Mr. Grundy and his associates."

Joseph R. Grundy, of Bristol,
Pa., is a worsted manufacturer.
His name figured prominently in the debate, Blaine and Senator Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina, contending Grundy wanted prohibitive duties on wool rags so his competitors, the woolen manufacturers, would provide less competition for the worsted users in the clothing market. Grundy last night was appointed a senator from Fennsylvanis in place of the banished William S. Vare.

Evidently referring to the present break in independent ranks, Blaine said there were "no deserters" in 1909 and added that if the present committee program went through, the farm group could not justify an assault upon the industrial rates carried in the bill.

Tiller explained today that the coming of a band of men to their house about five weeks before Connie disappeared, claiming they had a warrant for Connie and that there was a reward of $10,000 for his capture, dead or alive, led to the charge against Hester. Hester drew a pistol during an argument, she said.

It is planned to continue the meetings of the delegation for the rest of the week. At the morning session yesterday Secretary Stimson outlined the general problems to be taken up at the London conference. In the afternoon Admirals Pratt and Jones held the floor and told of the present condition of the American Navy and of those of the other powers.

That no definite policy, except a wish and a will to bring about further disarmament in naval vessels and arms, has been adopted by this country was made manifest when Secretary Stimson said that, of course, Ambassador Morrow and the other delegates would bring new ideas on the subject.

Announcing today that the vote as tabulated thus far stood 8,386 to 193 in favor of the strike, W. D. Duncan, district president, said the next step lies with the executive committee of lies with the executive committee of the United Mine Workers of America. Operators generally declined to comment on the vote, but one of the larger operators expressed doubt that a strike would be sanctioned by the International Union, saying that John L. Lewis, International president, recently had told President Hoover that no strikes would be called in the immediate future unless wages were reduced. It was indicated also that in case of a general strike the mines probably would be closed, and no attempt made to operate them. Most of the mines have been operating full time since cold weather started.

Operators steadfastly have refused to recognize the union, but claim that with few exceptions the mines are paying the 1917 wage scale. Small mines, known as "wagon mines." In some cases are paying less.

The 1917 agreement provided for a basic scale of from $4.09 to $4.35 a day for inside work, $3.55 for outside work and $4 to $5 cents per ton for labor employed on that basis. Lewis said some mines are paying that rate, but that others are paying a low as $2 a day for outside work and $3 daily for inside work.

There is difference of opinion as to how many of the miners actually are members of the union, but both sides appear to agree that if a strike were called it would hamper operations seriously. The union has been active in recent months in organizing the Twenty-third District U. M. W. A., which comprises western Kentucky. the United Mine Workers of America

REPEAL OF LAW SOUGHT

The Democratic State central committee today took a stand against a special senatorial election in Wyomspecial senatorial election in Wyoming, aithough such action would prewent the party from contesting for the seat now temporarily held by Senator Patrick J. Sullivan, Republican,

The Democrats opposed the calling

Members of the State Legislature, Members of the State Legislature, which will meet in special season tomorrow at the call of Gov. "For more than 100 years the business interests have not awakened to the needs for water-front developments for industrial purposes, and not until recently has it occurred to those who are striving to bring industry into Arlington County that such development was necessary in Rosslyn. Stanley was given a preliminary hearing before Police Justice Louis M. Hopkins, and remanded to jail in default of $1,000 bail. A plea for release on his own recognizance, on the ground that his wife and two minor children are destitute, was denied by the magistrate.

ARMY OFFICER IS FINED

James J. Lucas. 1446 Fourteenth street northwest, driver of a Nevin bus which ran off the left sid of the Baltimore boulevard November 26 near Beltsville, yesterday was acquitted of charges of reckies sdriving by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court. The acquittal folowed the testimony by the only passenger present in court that the driver had been driving carefully and that there had been a car with dazzling lights approaching at the time. James J. Lucas, 1446 Fourteenth had been a car with dazzling lights approaching at the time.

Lieut. R. E. Raleigh, of the Maryland State police, conducted the prosecution of the case. He said that the office of the motor vehicle commissioner did not wish to persecute the bus drivers, but in view of the statements of most of the passengers at the time of the accident it had been deemed proper to make a further investigation. He said that he had arrived at the scene shortly after ther investigation. He said that he had arrived at the scene shortly after the accident and found the bus in a ditch on the left side of the Balti-more boulevard, leaning against a tree. The driver told him he had been dazzled by headlights. Raleigh said.

She testified that she had driven a car best defense witness present. She testified that she had driven a car for twenty years and that she had been watching the road. In her opinion, she said, the driven ha driven in a careful maner. She saw the dazzling headlights of an approaching automobile just before the crash, she said. Lieut. Raleigh then introduced the sworn statement of Walter D. Fleck, of the Columbia Pictures Corporation of New York, who charged that the driver told the starter just before the bus left Washington, "you ought to be ashamed to send out one of these wrecks. How about a flat job?" Fleck's statement also declared that the driver had hugged the left side of the road all the way and that he had remonstrated with the driver because of the rough manner in which he had crossed a detour. He also charged that the bus driver had said he had driven a bus since 7 o'clock that morning. The accident occurred at about midnight.

Lucas drew a laugh when he explained that he wanted a flat job because he could look out the rear for policemen. He said that he had been blinded by bright headlights and had swerved to the rihgt only to see a telegraph pole and had then swung back toward the road, while still partly blinded by the headlights' rays. He said that Fleck had been grumbling throughout the trip. He testified that he rose at noon and had gone to work at about 8 o'clock in the evening.

Albert E. Summer, the starter, denied that Lucas had argued with him and said he started out apparently in an amiable frame of mind. S. J. Edwards, division manager, testified that he had personally tested the bus before it started on the run.

Lucas was represented by Mrs. A. S. Musgrave and S. B. Sightler, jr., Washington attorneys, who objected attenuously to the admission of the Fleck statement as evidence.

Mary W. Browning, wife of a Waahington coffee man, of Riverdale, has been recommended for the office left vacant by the resignation of Commissioner Bowie, and her appointment by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie will mark the first time a woman has been appointed to this office in the county's history.

Commissioner Bowie's resignation and the appointment of Mrs. Browning were decided upon at a meeting of the Democratic State central committee of Prince Georges County, held Monday. Every effort has been made to keep the changes secret, although the reason has not been revealed. Mrs. Browning is a member of the State central committee and expects to retain her membership if approved by the governor. Recommendation by the central committee is tantamount to appointment.

The former commissioner succeeds James C. Blackwell, whose appointment expired last Tuesday. Although he has not formally taken over the reins of the office, it is understood that his appointment as clerk became effective yesterday. Bowie has been active in county politics for many years. He at one time served as a member of the board of education. His term as county commissioner would expire next November.

Mrs. Browning also has been active for some time in county politics, especially as a member of the Democratic State central committee.

It is understood that Blackwell will retire from county politics for the years of the power of the person.

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.) .- Mayor James J. Walker today entered into the investigations to determine the ause of the fire which yesterday detroyed the Manhattan movie studio n Harlem, killing ten people and in-

The mayor ordered Fire Commissioner Dorman to turn over a preliminary report of his investigation so far, and started a survey of the reports of the fire marshal and fire prevention bursays.

Fire Chief Kenlon laid the blame for the loss of the ten liyes in the fire to the failure of studio employes immediately to turn in an alarm when the blaze was discovered. Had the employes turned in the slarm before they first attempted unsuccessfully to quench the blaze themselves, firemen might have been able to rescue the last ten persons running for the main exit, who were overcome by smoke before they could reach safety, and perished.

The police department and district attorney's office also are investigating the fire. No definite cause for the disaster has been determined, but one electrician said he saw a red hot carbon falling from a high-powered arc light, ignite a velvet curtain. Officials were unable to verify his version as the electrician who manned the light, Carl Kramer, was one of the fire's victims.

"Later, when they got no response, they became more threatening, and soon Father Cleary came up bravely under their guns and started to plead with them. He asked them in all decency to drop the effort to escape, which was doomed to failure, and Sullivan, I think, replied:

"Tather, I am a Catholic and I would like to obey you, but this has gone too far. Either we are going out, or we shall die, and if we die, these officers are going to die with us."

Gas Bomb Starts Melee.

Darkness was only a few minutes away and the attacking forces turn-det their attention to the main body of convicts, approximately 1,560 in number.

These had remained passive but restlies during the battle and were believed to be waiting only the turn of the tide to make a massed attack on the gates.

Between 300 and 400 troopers, policemen and civilians, heavily armed, were detailed to return all prisoners to their cells and conduct an organized and careful search of prisoners and cells alike for concealed the prisoners, and Capt. Bruton, of the prison guards, was wounded.

"Then we got word that the men in front had some plan of meeting their (convicts) wishes. At any rate they said they would convince the prisoners that the doors were open and the automobiles ready to take them away, and they opened the doors so they could enter the main hali and have an unobstructed view of the open prison dioor all the way to the street, with the automobiles waiting for them.

Thereupon, the doors of the main hall were—opened from both north and south wings, and we all went out into that main hall. The convicts had up to now controlled an enfilading gunfire from these two doors. They came into the hall, taking us with them, when suddenly a State trooper with astounding bravery stepped into full range of their guns and threw a gas bomb. Fifth Major Outbreak.

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Today's mutiny of convict at Auburn Prison is the fifth major outbreak which has occurred in penitentiaries in this country in the past six months. The outbreaks have taken the lives of eighteen guards and prisoners and caused prison property loss of more than $1,000,000. Today's outbreak was the second at Auburn within the six months' period.

Fifty long-term convicts attempted a wholesale delivery at Auburn one quiet Sunday last July when two-thirds of the guard force was off duty. Four of the prisoners were successful in their dash for freedom, but the others were driven back under heavy

For hours the mutinous criminals created a reign of terror within the prison's wails, setting fire to buildings which resulted in $500,000 damage. Finally with the aid of State troopers and police the guards forced the rioters to surrender. Two convicts were killed and eleven wounded.

One Convict Is Killed.

George Small, one of the prisoners who escaped, was shot and killed recently by a policeman when attempting to escape, after a holdup in Brooklyn. A woman bystander was killed by the gunfire exchanged between Small and the patrolman. Another of those who escaped was caught in Buffalo' a few weeks after the riot.

Silver Years

On the Rules of Traffic By WILLIAM ULLMAN

A driver can violate the traffic reguisations even when he is going backwards. There is one provision in the code that prohibits turning about in a street if the car must be backed to make the turn.

The reason for this is clear enough if the turn can be made in one forward movement, there is little likelihood of interfering with traffic. If the car must be backed, it may necessitate maneuvering that will hold uptraffic in both directions.

Example: A driver is in the middle of the block in a narrow street, and decides to go back the way he came. From experience, he should be able totell if he can turn around without having to back. If that is necessary, he must drive around the block.

SENATOR GRUNDY.

Joseph R. Grundy has been appointed United States senator from Pennsylvania, to fill the vacancy caused by the refusal of the enate to seat William S. Vare.

Mr. Grundy has been the target of attack by members of the Senate coalition. The lobby investigating committee went at him without gloves, ostensibly for the purpose of exposing his wickedness as a lobbyist, but actually for the purpose of holding him up as the incarnation of the evils inherent in a high-tariff system that protects American industry and thereby grinds the face of American agriculture. Mr. Grundy more than held his own during the examination. The committee failed utterly to discredit him in the public eye, but on the contrary brought him into favorable notice as a foursquare and procese believer in the protective tariff. Chanks to the committee he now stands as he leading protective tariff champion in the

Will the coalition try to prevent the seatg of Mr. Grundy, on the charge that he hised huge sums for campaign purposes and thereby acquired undue influence over memers of Congress, which he proceeded to use for the wicked purpose of raising the tariff on industrial products!

Mr. Grundy comes with a certificate from he Governor of Pennsylvania. He is consti- bility is beneficial to the farmers or anybody intionally entitled to his seat. No charge of corruption in connection with his appointment has been made, and it is not probable that any one will have the hardihood to make such a charge.

One or two of the insurgents who have afected to be horrified by the disclosure of Mr. Grundy's campaign activities have intimated that they will not attempt to prevent im from taking his seat. One of them, Senator Norris, invokes the Constitution in Mr. Grundy's behalf. It is a novelty to see Mr. Norris alluding to the Constitution as having lishers of the Northwest. any force or effect, especially after his parcipation in the unconstitutional act debarring Senator Vare from his seat. But the Constitution survives, even when approved by the senator from Nebraska.

Gov. Fisher puts up to the Senate, fairly and squarely, the question of receiving or barring a man entitled to represent Pennavlvania. Unless the Senate has entirely lost sense of responsibility it will seat Mr. Grundy without question and without debate. A backdown on the part of Mr. Grundy's recent critics is hardly to be expected, hower, without voluminous debate. They may ecide that discretion is the better part of alor, and may criticize him before he is in a right. They might not fare so well if they should defer their attacks until he is in a position to reply.

RELEASING THE PHILIPPINES.

The new movement to grant independence to the Philippine Islands, which is now gathering momentum in the Senate, is regarded some quarters as a plan to sacrifice the Mands for the sake of American agriculture. is quite natural that such a view should taken because of the untimely resolution introduced by Senator King during the tariff fight on farm products. The Senate properly rejected this intrusion of the subject into the tariff debate, but indications are that when the question is revived in February a resolution to free the islands will be pressed. A delegation representing the Philippine Legislature is en route to Washington to take pirt in the forthcoming struggle. Hearings all he held before the Senate committee on territories and insular affairs, beginning in January. By that time it is hoped that the tariff bill will be out of the way and that dependence can be considered on its merits. The economic question will no doubt be the hinge on which the whole movement Ill turn. It would be idle to deny that mpetition between American and Philipne agricultural products will influence any votes in favor of independence. But a fundamental economic question is more meep rooted. The islands are becoming so onomically dependent upon the United ates that separation would be impossible thout internal chaos. The Philippines are rapidly becoming an American colony, sending a large percentage of their produce to Congress is not confronted with the original question of keeping the islands or setting them free. The Government is comed to a policy of withdrawing as soon the Filipinos are capable of maintaining stable government. Under present condimdence is to be granted, steps must be ing offending members. taken to make the islands economically independent.

Congress can not seriously consider cutting the islands off by a sudden gesture. The economic ties based on free trade relations should be gradually loosened, step by step with corresponding measures that will promote economic independence. When the Philippines are no longer dependent for a livelihood upon the United States there will be some justification for turning them loose.

A NORTHWESTERN BREEZE.

A few weeks ago the spokesmen of the Senate insurgents, notably Senator Norris, were demanding that Congress revise the tariff on agricultural products, leaving industrial rates as they are. A resolution to that effect nearly passed the Senate.

Since that time the coalition of Democrats and insurgents has demonstrated that it has a majority in the Senate. The proposal to leave industrial rates as they stand in existing law has been abandoned, and an effort is to be made by the coalition to "slash industrial rates."

Wherever opposition to this lofty purpose appears one of the group is able to see corruption behind it. The most recent offenders in this class are a group of several hundred editors and publishers of rural newspapers in Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota and Iowa. These editors dared to raise funds and publish in The Washington Post an advertisement calling on Congress to speed up action on the tariff bill and not to "slash existing industrial rates." Senator Norris can not believe that such heretical doctrine could come from the agricultural regions; so he calls upon the lobby investigating committee to apply the inquisition.

No one can deny that it is disconcerting for the Middle Western block to be confronted with an appeal from its own constituents to use common sense in dealing with the tariff. The article in question admonished them in these words:

We have noted how industrial tariff slashing in times past has invariably brought depression and unemployment. We do not want that condition to recur, because many of our products are already dangerously near saturation point regards consumption. We must increase the market demand for our products, and there is no better or more certain way to increase that demand than to safeguard the prosperity of the country. * * In short, we are better off with good customers paying us higher prices for the products we sell every day and every week, even if we must forego slight reductions in the prices of what we must less often buy from them.

Such a statement of public sentiment throughout the Northwest is, of course, very embarrassing to Senator Norris and others who have set themselves up as exclusive spokesmen for the farm belt. The force of this statement must be destroyed, if possible, or Senator Norris and others in his position may find it difficult to explain to their constituents how an attack upon industrial staelse. Hence Mr. Norris asserts that the newspaper publishers are merely "pretending to be friends of the farmers." He would like to call these publishers before the inquisition and "ascertain how much they are paying, who solicited the payments, and how all this has been brought about."

Senator Caraway, chairman of the lobby committee, seems to have no stomach for such an inquest. He does not seem to harbor the suspicion that Joe Grundy has organized and subsidized the country newspaper pub-

The country would like to hear what the country newspaper publishers of Nebraska have to say on the subject of "slashing industrial rates." The Post would be delighted to make room for a page advertisement at regular rates to any section of the American public on any public question.

NO COUNTRY DOCTORS.

A recent meeting in Washington of the committee on the cost of medical care 1929: brought out the fact that the United States has more physicians per other country in the world, but that the distribution of these doctors as between rural position to meet them on the floor in his own and urban sections is so unequal that thousands of citizens have no access to medical attention. The situation is aggravated by the tendency of young doctors to remain in the cities where they receive their education.

A statement by Clarence F. Kendall, comissioner of health in Maine, shows that 226 towns and 65 organized plantations of that State are without resident physicians. The problem has become particularly acute in Maine because that State has no medical school, and few young men return to practice there after studying elsewhere. A large per cent of the doctors of that State are over years old, showing that practically all of the young men entering the profession are partial to an urban practice. So desperate has the situation become that a considerable number of towns appropriate funds ranging from $500 to $3,500 annually to induce a physician to settle within their area.

On the other hand it is reported that most cities are oversupplied with medical men. Disparity between the average income of rural and urban doctors is not sufficient to account for this condition. It is well that the committee on the cost of medical care is giving it attention. It has been suggested that medical schools encourage their students to settle in country districts, but the effect of such influence would, no doubt, be slight. Neither medical schools nor the Government can force young physicians to settle in the situation further reveals the disorganized state of the medical profession. The profession, as a body, should feel the responsibility of supplying the entire country with medical

THE WORLD COURT

By GIST BLAIR.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Your editorial on the world court of the League of Nations deserves the thanks of every citizen in our country, and as one among many I am unable to restrain myself from at once writing to thank you for it.

I have been in France for some six months and read the newspapers carefully. I have had the privilege of meeting many French and English people who are conversant with their affairs. If any one thing seemed to me to be more resented by all of them than any other, it was the apparent acceptance of America and Americans that our country is the first and best in the world and can now indirectly dictate policies. It is quite natural for these people to look upon us with dislike if we now greet them as if we were their superiors or possessed better rights for consideration at the hands of humanity than

Now in connection with this point, and of your editorial of today and recent ones on Russia, I quote to you from Monday's Post on page 2 from the letter of the Secretary of State to the President, dated November 18,

"A mere recital of these precautions [about the world court] makes it apparent how remote the contingency is that the United States will ever be constrained to exercise its right of withdrawal. It may be suggested here that this contingency of withdrawal might place the United States in an awkward or embarrassing position, and thus submit it to moral pressure to permit a question to which it really objects. II take this to be a misprint and the letter really says 'agree to' where the words 'to permit' are inserted.] The real hazard is more likely to be the other way. The influence of the United States is so great, the effect of its mere suggestion of withdrawal would be so embarrassing to the other nations that there

It is a demonstrable fact that nothing can be destroyed. Man can change the form of things, as coal is changed to ash and gas, the example of Notrhern cities in but all things in the universe at its beginning are here now in some form. Nothing has been added or taken away.

That is sufficient proof that life continues after it quits the body Does it suffer thereafter? Not as we know suffering. It is free of physical laws. It is a spirit. As a spirit it needs no habitation. We speak of "another land"

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Now that Mr. Hoover is speaking again about building programs for this city, we are reminded to ask what has become of his splendid plan to build apartments which Government clerks ould afford to live in here, at $12.50 a room. Enough clerks must have while he was Secretary of Commerce for we were told by the newspapers that his rich friend was ready to build the apartments, but that President Coolidge did not approve of it. We never could understand why his approval was at all necessary. Now that Mr. Hoover is President, what's those apartments, as rents here are still as high as they were in war time, and have been ever since-eleven years. Bringing to a close its twenty-fifth naual convention, the National Rivers and Harbors Congress yester-day indorsed the Hoover waterway program, urged completion of all pending waterway projects within five years, recommended early passage of a rivers and harbors act by Conress and elected officers.

In its final "statement of purposes the Congress also recommended conarbor activities by Army engineers, moval of flood menaces and development of streams for industrial power. The closing session was enlivened by a debate between Senator Walsh (Democrat). of Montana, and Senator Copeland (Democrat). of New York, over the proposed St. Lawrence waterways project.

Senator Walsh described the international Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project as "the most imperative task now confronting American statesmanship." He opposed the substitute proposal for an all-American canal cutting through the State of New York.

Taking issue with Walsh, Copeland defended the Great Lakes-Hudson project and denounced the St. Lawrence project as unfair to American interests and altogether advantageous to Canada.

Of these men in the Washington vicinity, the most important discussion at the final session centered around Bright in connection with the James River project. After hearing from Bright that a survey had been completed of the James River, the congress recommended improvement of the river at a cost of $3,500,000, including widening and deepening of the river and elimination of three bends. Bright announced his confidence that a decision on the matter would be forthcoming at an early date from the War Department. State, which should assume complete responsibility for their care and upbringing.

Sabsovitch recommends that babies be taken away from their mothers immediately after birth and never be returned to the parental roof. He would place them in special "baby houses" to be established along lines of socialistic pedagogy. If this were done, the Soviet economist contends, future generations in Russia will not only enter maturity with greater physical fitness, but will also have no "false" ideas about the obligations of the individual to his parents or relatives. Children will, instead, grow up to regard the state as their parents.

Sabsovitch maintains that the "influence of the family and of parents is in most instances harmful, even in capitalistic countries." He, therefore, urges that children be sent to "baby houses" and later to "kindergarten homes" as far as possible from their birthplaces. He also recommends establishment of special "children's cities" in which state-reared children would live until the age of 17.

Moscow, Dec. 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—
Complete separation of children from their parents from early infancy has been recommended to the Soviet government by L. M. Sabsovitch, one of Russia's leading economists.

He argues that under a communistic regime children should not be the "property" of their parents, but should become the property of the State, which should assume complete responsibility for their care and upbringing.

As a woman and a leading educator she thinks that such a system would only compromise the Soviet system of education. She particularly resents Sabsovitch's argument that children in a socialistic country should become the property of the state.

Krupskaya declares that even in a Communistic country people can not live like machines, ignoring their natural love for their own children. She points out that even though private property may no longer exist in Soviet countries, parental feelings can not be legislated out of existence.

She warns that many workers and their wives would never agree to their children be taken away from them and placed in "baby houses," and she thinks that they will be right.

"The feeling of child and mother gives too much its beat and the present."

gives too much joy, both to parent and to child, to be ruthlessly done away with." away with."

In place of the "baby houses" recommended by Sabsovitch, Krupskaya would have special buildings where children could eat, go to school and sleep and yet be near enough their parents to see them whenever they wanted.

London, Dec. 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.) House of Lords today censured the treaty with Egypt which withdraws British troops from Cairo to the Suez Canal. about Winston Churchill:

"When this distinguished visitor was here he took a trip on my private car." Mr. Schwab went on. "I particularly cautioned Joe Ray, my colored porter, to treat him with dignity and the greatest respect. Joe, evidentify very much impressed, solemniy promised.

"I met the train when it arrived!" New York but though there were about 40 newspaper men to meet Mr. Churchill there was no sign of life on the car

"As I walked into the dining room there was the breakfast on the table just as it had been left, table cloth turned back, and then what did I see — there, so engrossed that they had not heard me enter, were Joe and the distinguished Englishman shooting craps."

Tinting photographs does not require a professional hand, not with our directions, anyway. Because photographs should not be painted, just slightly tinted, with the proper paints applied in just the proper way.

What these paints and ways are you can find out by simply sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's leafiet. Better do it. It'll be fun to know how it's done.

our great worry so we are writing for your verdict.

One year ago we let our reason desert us, and we married. He is only 21 and 1 20. Our familles made no fuss, but we knew we had done wrong and have never known the joy we expected. Today we are dissatisfied and have been ever since the fatal day. We each have treated the other with every courtesy, but we have decided "love" is lacking. I have told him if he provides for me now I will leave him, and he can do as he wants to, and I will do the same. He says, he is perfectly willing to do that. We do not want a divorce and there are no children. Neither is that. We do not want a divorce and there are no children. Neither is there any one else. We just want to be free.

Every one of our friends think we are an ideal match and happy beyond measure, for we have never had an unkind word. The way we see it is we were kids and made a big mistake. Neither blames the other. It was an instant's insanity and two It was an instant's insanity and two lives spoiled. So why should we not

I wonder I wonder how many married couples can produce a better record. But, of course, you may be right about the absence of that glorious spark that makes everything worth while, that spark that flared one year ago and fluttered out. But I wonder! Here is my advice. Go on a long visit of trip and think of him. Decide then whether you really are happier. It seems to me a pity you should part, each perhaps to join your life with some companion utterly inferior, and find too late that what would shared together was love if the King of Hearts were in the East if the King of Hearts were in the East if the King of Hearts were in the East utterly inferior, and find too late that what would shared together was love of the highest order. Step cautiously For some day you may each look back upon this year and feel that you had stumbled upon the treasure of all treasures. You know most young couples at some time or another get the idea of divorce.

Just children quarreling over their first heartaches together. Look on all sides of your problem before acting. Try to compare each other with the possible partners you might have chosen. I do not believe you two young people should separate. I am so afraid you could never again find partners worthy of you. And I hope some of the younger couples who have weathered such storms will write you their experience, and perhaps we could hear from some of those who choose divorce.

You see, somehow I sense that the trouble is you stated off convinced.

You see, somehow I sense that the trouble is you started off convinced you had done wrong, had injured each other by rushing into marriage. Such a thought would take the joy out of any enterprise. It spoiled your marriage. Now it seems your subsequent behavior has been such that each of you may well be proud of the other—and of your choice.

Part temporarily, stop thinking of your union as a mistake. Think of it as predestined, if premature. Think of each other as you have been for the last year. Picture what some people would have been under such circumstances. Try to appreciate each other. Don't make a second mistake. I believe you love and do not know it.

which brings both prosperity and happiness. A vein of romance will be struck which will run through many years of your life.

Children born on this December 12 will be naturally very quiet and of a retiring nature. They will attain success through merit, as they will be patient, conscientious workers. They will have well-balanced mentalities. You are progressive, active-minded and energetic, qualities which should be stepping stones to success. It is not lack of industry which keeps you back, but a dissatisfied, roving disposition. You sow much seed, but you are too restless to await the crop, and all too often, others reap the rewards of your efforts. You are inclined to scatter your mental and physical forces; more concentrated action is needed on your part to bring you more than you are now getting out of life. You need not be a disappointment to either yourself or others; one of your ability need not take a back seat for any one, if you would only stay "put."

Others like you, trust you and boost for you; you are your own worst enemy. You are not lacking in initiative, and you are not asleep when opportunities come your way. You jump into things at the right time, but you jump out of them at the wrong time. You need to find an anchor and use it. You are amenable to good influence, and you should be careful in the choice of your friends. The right sort of a wife or husband could be the making of you.

The Washington Post Presents

A Practical Program of Character Building

For Children Between the Ages of 6 and 12

The Knighthood of Youth

This is a national club for young people of less than scout age in which each child is termed a "Knight" of varying rank. He enters the order as a "page" and by following knightly precepts of behavior advances in regular periods.

Boys and girls approaching the teen age are full of imagination. Ritual and ceremony are highly attractive to them. In Knighthood they readily picture themselves as "Knights" on a journey to their "Castle of Knighthood." They slay dragons, personified by their own bad habits—and supp ant them with good deeds.

The child joins the national organization of the "Knighthood of Youth," which is sponsored by the National Child Welfare Association of New York City, and receives a button identifying him as a "Page." He also has a chart which acts as a daily reminder of the "dragons" he must slay and the good "adventures" which he may have. This chart is kept at home and marked by the child under the supervision of his parents.

A group of "Knights" become a "Castle" and such a group may be composed of an entire class in school or Sunday school. When so organized the children become more interested in their regular studies and are genuinely concerned with maintenance of class order and discipline. The organization helps the teacher to awaken and enliven her regular classroom work because it is an all-inclusive project which will keep the pupils active, and permit them to form their own moral judgments. Parents may also make use of it in their own home training. Knighthood becomes a game which the children play and in which parents and teachers join.

This brief resume can only give an idea of the great scope and wonderful possibilities of this character building program. The Washington Post will be pleased to give more detailed information to any parent or educator desiring it.

It is never too early to inculcate the right principles of conduct in children. Parents are invariably successful in the discharge of their duties during the period preceding school age—afterward the parents' responsibility is divided with that of the educator, but the child is also subject to many influences beyond the control of either.

Children are naturally inquisitive and their active minds and restless bodies lead them into many escapades, often classed as deliberate wrong doing, which are in reality the mere result of a search for mental and physical occupation. A child's imagination is almost inconceivable to the adult. It soars far beyond the limits prescribed by the orders of those in authority and induces actions that can seldom be anticipated. It is therefore evident that any system of child-training must start with a proper consideration of a child's habits of thought and give him an idea that requires personal initiative, that he may follow through to his own conclusion and which nevertheless follows a prescribed course, although to the child it appears as a path of his own choosing.

The program outlined herewith has been successfully practiced by leading educators in Western States and in metropolitan New York. It bridges the gap between parental and scholastic training and coordinates them in a manner that is most acceptable to the children while developing their habits of thought and conduct along most approved lines.

The Washington Post is sponsoring this program of child character building in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia with the conviction that it is the most practical and efficient method that could be devised. It conflicts in no way with either a parent's or a teacher's prerogatives; it is enjoyable for the youngsters to follow and it has proved its value in other cities.

The Washington Post

Three pages of The Sunday Post Tabloid Magazine, beginning Sunday, December 15, will be devoted each Sunday to news and activities of "The Knighthood of Youth." This will supplement the regular four pages for Juvenile Post readers . . . This newspaper can not undertake the work of organization of various "castles" but it is ready to render all assistance to every group desiring to affiliate with "The Knighthood of Youth."

able to appear because of illness. But Harold Bauer, who was en route from the Southwest to New York, appeared in his place to the full satisfaction of the audience after they heard Mr. Bauer's rendition of three numbers of concert status.

Mr. Bauer, despite the fact that he only arrived in Washington a short time before the concert began, was in fine form, and played the opening "Buite in A Minor" (Bach) with masterly skill. His later numbers included a group of Schumann's "Etudes Symphoniques," a Liszt valse and a Debussy composition. In all of these he maintained the same high standard of virtuosity and was rewarded by several ovations from the audience.

Maria Olszewska, contraito, of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, proved "The Shannons of Broadway," the high standard of virtuosity and was rewarded by several ovations from the audience.

Maria Olszewska, contraito, of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, proved most acceptable as costar with Mr. Bauer. Her beautiful voice has the true contraito quality with deep organ-like tones emotional possibilities and a wide range. Her first number was a group of German lleder songs by Schubert. Her diction was impeccable and she sang them with tenderness and rare interpretation. Besides the Schubert selections Mme. Olszewska was heard in a Brahms group and three of Strauss's lovely songs.

Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's thirty-ninth musical morning next Wednesday will feature Senorita Emma Otero, the Cuban coloratura soprano, and Richard Crooks, tenor of the Berlin Hof Oper and Hamburg Oper.

Thoughtful boys, these—and the slocal Fox staff are nice fellows, too, said he, subtly endeavoring to quality is as a career man!

"Black and Tan," the RKO sound auxiliary presented at the RKO-Keith Theater by Duke Ellington and his Harlem associates, is the feature to which I have reference. In powerful dramatic effect and tensely moving content, it far surpasses the major feature of the bill in my estimation. Combining the lighter elements of comedy, song and dance in a typically atmospheric manner, it proceeds further to reveal an aspect of Negro nature that is profoundly moving—in the death scene of the dancer who expires in the "black and tan" cabaret while her husband and his band throw the anguish of their souls into jungle strains that cvan such a master of his race's barbaric rhythms as W. S. Handy never succeeded in writing into his "St. Louis Blues," "Beale Street Blues," "Memphis Blues," or any of the other oddity syncopated compositions that marked the birth of this form of musical expression in this country.

The Wardman Park has long been known as one of the most delightful houses in Washington. Charmingly planned and equipped with large, comfortable arm chairs, it offers a perfect setting for an evening's diversion. The latest improved sound appearatus has been installed in anticipation of a number of the popular talkie productions that will be given repeat engagements. The theater will be under the management of Maxim P. Lowe, long associated with Meyer Davis in an executive capacity.

Evening performances will be presented at 7 and 9 o'clock, with matiness on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays at 3 o'clock. Week-day admission will be 35 cents, except on Saturdays, when as in the case of Sundays and holidays, the charge will be 50 cents. All matiness will be 25 cents, and children will be admitted to all performances, whether afternoon or night, at the flat rate of 25 cents.

I was impressed with the tremendously effective manner in which it compressed the whole emotional reaction of a persecuted race to weirdly aboriginal music into a vivid and trage episode consuming only a few orief moments.

Keen disappointment was evinced at Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's musical morning at the Hotel May-flower yesterday when it was announced that Jose Iturbi, planist, one of the artists of the concert, was unable to appear because of illness. But Harold Bauer, who was en route from the Southwest to New York, appeared in his place to the full satisfaction of the audience after they heard Mr. Bauer, sendition of three numbers of concert status.

Mr. Bauer, despite the fact that he only arrived in Washington a short time before the concert began, was in fine form, and played the opening "Suite in A Minor" (Bach) with masterly skill. For the week preceding Christmas, which, with Holy Week and St. Louis, comprises one of the worst on the calendar, theatrically speaking, the bookings will be as follows, all beginning Saturday, except the Rialto, which inaugurates its new bills on Priday, and the Earle, which begins the new week Friday midnight:

RKO-Keith's Erich von Stroheim and Betty Compson in "The Great Gabbo:" Fox, Charles Farrell and Mary Duncan in "The Bliver;" Columbia, all-colored cast in King Vidor's production of "Hallelujah;" Metropolitan, Ruth Chatterton, Cilve Brook and William Boyd (of the stage), in "Charming Sinners;" Rialto, Josephine Dunn, Alan Hale and Kathryn Craw-"Charming Sinners;" Rialto, Josephine Dunn, Alan Hale and Kathryn Crawford in "Red Hot Rhythm;" Earle, Dorothy Mackail and Sidney Blackmer in "The Love Racket;" Palace, Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck and Betty Bronson in "The Locked Door" Wardman Park, Victor McLaglen, Lily Damita and Edmund Lowe in "The Cock-Eyed World."

Santa Barbara, Calif., Dec. 11 (A.P.) lef that Stanley McCormick probmind was expressed today by Dr. unel Ingam, of Los Angeles, a witin the Superior Court hearing medical care and guardianship into medical care and guardianship of the incompetent multimillionaire. Dr. Ingam, a specialist in nervous and mental diseases, who appeared as a plaintif's witness, testified that in his opinion the "recoverability" of the patient was less favorable because of the length of the lilness. McCormick, who is 54 years old, was adjudged incompetent 23 years ago.

Dr. Ingam said there was hope for improvement in the patient, but that anything that is to be done should be done as soon as possible."

Wife Seeks Sole Guardlanship

Wife Seeks Sole Guardianship.

The hearing was brought about by Mrs. Katherine McCormick, wife of the patient, on the allegation that souther, Harold P. McCormick, and a lister, Mrs. Anita Blaine, coguardians with Mrs. McCormick, were providing improper medical care. She seeks sole guardianship of her husband and administration of his fortune, now some 354,000,000, which he inherited from his father, the late Cyrus H. McCormick, Chicago harvester king.

Testifying that he had examined the patient three times, the last a flooth ago. Dr. Ingam said he diagnosed the illness as dementia precox. It said that the medical profession in recent years had arrived at the consistsion that this form of insanity was based on functional disorders rather than on mental and emotional upeers, as it was believed previously.

Dr. Ingam said experience has diught that after a patient has Dr. Ingam said experience has tached 50 years of age, he becomes stieter, more apathetic and shows less interest in anything.

Noted No Substantial Change.

On the last visit, the witness said, he noted no substantial change from his observations of previous visits which were made some months ago. He recommended keeping of charts and records on the daily routine of the patient to provide a perspective for treatment.

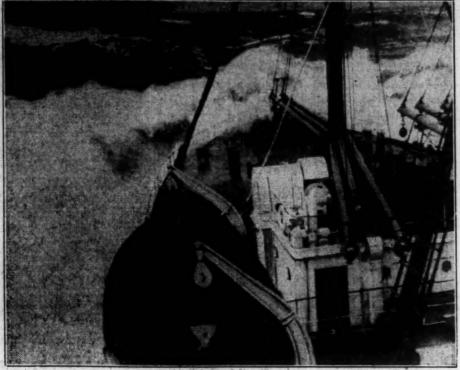

The charts, he said, especially abould contain information on rigular tests to determine the proper functioning of the gastronomic and steetinal tracts. He said these facts frequently supplied intoxicants which damaged the brain and that his examinations and studies of reports on the patient will discate the presence of gastronomic disorders. Switching to amusement for McCormick, the defense brought out that musical concerts provided were fuseless if, as the testimony showed, the patient walked out on them." Recreation provided, Dr. Ingam said, should be only those things in which terest.

LOSSES RECOVERED; STOCK SALES GROW

Westinghouse's $1 Annual Rate Advance Leads Dividend Increases.

CARRIERS SHOW GAINS

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.) .- Stock prices drifted aimlessly about today on rather weak cross currents of buying and selling which represented little more than cautious experimentation by both speculators for the rise and for the fall. After frequent shifts of trand, several leading shares dipped rather sharply in the last hour. Total sales were 3,897,300 shares, a moderate increase over yes-shares, a moderate increase over yesterday's.

The market appears to have reached a stalemate for the moment. More than a third of the losses of the past two months has been regained. The history of most previous bear markets of this century, showing sharp secondary relapses after about 45 per cent of the first declines had been regained, makes operators for the rise rather cautious at this period, but nevertheless optimism still predominates and bearish efforts meet with meager success. with meager success.

Favorable Corporation News.

The day's corporation and indus trial news remained fairly favorable, and faith in the widely predicted retrial news remained fairly favorable, and faith in the widely predicted revival of business fairly early in the new year seemed to be growing. Several more favorable dividend actions were announced, led by an increase from $4 to $5 in Westinghouse Electric's annual rate. The recent influx of extra dividends have lost their bullish effect upon market sentiment, as they reflect primarily the earnings of a period now past, but increases in annual rates indicate confidence in the future. Another split up was announced, directors of Otis Elevator arranging a 4-to-1 split.

The weekly steel trade reviews remained optimistic. Iron Age said that indications are for lower production and shipments this month, but explained that this may be attributed largely to the reduction of stocks for year-end inventories and pointed to are encouraging revival of inquiry for automotive steel. It found nowhere the signs of a general paralysis of trade such as has developed after other stock market crashes. The freight car loadings report for the last week of November showed sharp reductions from both the previous week and the like week a year ago, but that may be attributed in part to the Thanksgiving holiday:

Credit was slightly firmer, call money holding at 4½ per cent, with no concessions in the outside market. Despite a slight sag in foreign exchange rates, a large shipment of gold to England was rumored to have been negotiated. Time money was nominally quoted a little easier at 4½ to 5, but remained extremely dull.

Standard Gas Gains.

Standard Gas Gains.

United States Steel sagged 41/4 points to a new low for the week at 177%, after touching 182% early in the day. Utilities were given a brief she day. Utilities were given a brief upward whirl. But this failed to produce any general rally. Standard Gas sold up about 9 points, but its gain was reduced to 5 by the close. Despite the higher dividend rate. Westinghouse Electric closed 6 points lower, as many traders had bought in expectation of a split-up. Western Union lost more than 8, and Rio about a point, in realizing on yesterday's upturns in the communications shares. General Electric, American Bank Note, American Telephone, Johns-Manville and Union Pacific were among shares losing 3 to 7 points.

were among shares losing 3 to 7 points.

A few of the more closely held issues made wide gains. Philadelphia 60, shot up about 35 points. Otis Elevator mounted 13 on the split-up news, but later lost 9 of its gain. Despite the Interstate Commerce Commission's announcement of post-pomement of railroad consolidation legislation, some of the key roads in the merger plans were exceptionally huoyant. Jersey Central Jumped 22 points, Pittsburgh & West Virginia made an extreme gain of 15 points, Wheeling & Lake Erie gained 10, and Wabash sold up more than 6. Commodities were largely heavy. Wheat futures lost more than 2 cents on bearish weather reports and weak exbles, and corn lost nearly a cent. Coffee futures reached new lows for the season, reflecting weakness in Brazilian exchange. Declined 35 to 60 cents a bale in sympathy with Liverpool.

Foreign exchanges were featured by sag of $\frac{1}{6}$ of a cent in sterling cables $0.84.88\frac{1}{4}$, where it is still around he gold point,

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries, address Charles W. Storm, financial de-partment of The Washington Post, and inclose a self - addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Budd Wheel and Chain Stores.

G. E. A.—Kindly give me informa-tion as to dividends and earnings of G. E. A.—Kindly give me intomation as to dividends and earnings of Budd Wheel and Chain Store Stocks.

Inc. Also your advice as to the purchase of them at present prices.

Answer—Budd Wheel Co. recently declared an initial quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the new common. Net sales for nine months ended September 30, 1929, including subsidiaries, as reported to the New York Stock Exchange, were $18,673,457, and net income, after operating expenses, depreciation, Federal taxes and interest, $1,676,695. Earnings on the common stock were $1.76 per share. The stock is regarded as a speculation and not an over attractive one at that. Chain Store Stocks, Inc., operates very trust. This column makes it a practice not to comment upon securities of that description for the reason, that their future success is so largely dependent upon the efficiency of their management.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical.

Virginia-Carolina Chemical.

Mrs W. B.—Will you please give your opinion as to the merits of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. versus Curtis Wright common? Would you suggest exchanging the former for the latter, or vice versa, taking into consideration the prospects of these two companies over the next two or three years?

Answer—Being common stock, neither of these issues are to be regarded in the nature of investment. At present prices there is very little to choose between them. Moreover, the companies being engaged in ertirely different lines of business, a comparison as to their prospects cith hardly be made. It is to be remeribered, however, that the Virgina-Carolina Chemical is engaged in an old-established line of business, whereas Curtiss Wright is in a religible to the companies of the virginal conditions.

Fred F. French Co.

Fred F. French Co.

J. E. V.—Do you consider the Pred
F. French Co., of New York City, a sound institution for a working man to invest in?

Answer—While the character of the enterprise mentioned may be all right, and the writer has no fault to find with it, "investments" of this description are rarely, if ever, recommended in this column, especially for a "working man." The advice always given is to keep a sufficient sum of money in the bank to guard against any possible contingency, after whica an investment might be made in some high grade preferred railroad or itdustrial stock or else some regular irterest-bearing bond, from either of which classes a steady and substantial income may be derived. Such is the advice given in this instance.

Pennroad Corporation and Others.

Pennroad Corporation and Others.

Pennroad Corporation and Others.

R. M.—Kindly advise me in regard to Pennroad Corporation. Would you advise holding that stock or would it be better to sell at a loss and use the money to buy Curtiss Wright A. Radio Corporation, Otis Steel or Packard Motors? What is your opinion about these latter shares?

Answer—Pennroad Corporation is a holding company, or in other words an investment trust closely affiliated with the Pennsylvania Rallroad. It is, therefore, favored with capable management and strong sponsorship. However, it is the policy of this column not to comment on investment trusts, not because their future success is so largely dependent upor management. The other stocks named are all more or less highly speculative. Of the four stocks, only Packard Motor and Otis Steel are at present on the dividend paying list.

Curtiss Wright Preferred.

F. T.—Will you please give me some information about Curtiss Wright preferred stock? I would like to buy some of the shares by paying a certain amount and completing payment by the month. Can I buy this stock this way without purchasing on margin?

Answer—By Curtiss Wright preferred it is presumed that you mean the class "A" stock, which is a preferential issue entitled to dividends of $2 per share annually and redeemable at $40 per share, but on which no dividend has as yet been paid. It is convertible, however, into common on a share for share basis. In view of the outstanding position of the company in its particular field and its strong sponsorship the class "A" stock, especially around current comparatively low levels, is regarded as one, of the most attractive in the group for the long pull. The stock is listed and estively seelt in on the one of the most attractive in the group for the long puil. The stock is listed and actively sealt in on the New York Curb Exchange. There is no known method whereby purchases may be made on the partial payment plan through members of any steal exchange.

Atlantic Refining and Others.

E. W. L.—I will appreciate your opinion regarding the advisability of buying the following common stocks on a 50 per cent margin: Atlantic Refining, Montgomery Ward, Borden Kroger Grocery, Consolidated Gas, N. Y.: International Telephone and Telegraph.

Y.; International Telephone and Telegraph.

Answer—Your list is a well diversified one and the writer would not suggest any substitutes, provided you favor common stocks, which are not as a class considered as sound investments, rather than preferred stocks of bonds, which are invariably recommended in this column. Marginal trading is always dangerous, even though the margin be considerable, as recent stock market experiences of countless people amply prove.

CELTIC CLUB PRIMES FOR APACHES

Hayman Gets Alexandria Team Ready for Sunday.

R UBE HAYMAN, former University of Virginia lineman, who is coaching the St. Mary's Celtic Eleven, of Alexandria, is leaving no stones unturned in his efforts to prime his team for Sunday's clash with the Apaches, District champions, at Griffith Stadium. Hayman proved Alexandria's Moses last Sunday when he led representatives of that city out of the bulirushes of sandiot football with a 3-0 triumph over the Mohawks as the vehicle.

The Alexandria coach, who saw the Apaches beat the Mohawks, realizes that he will have to have a better drilled club than that of last Sunday if the Celtics are to add the scalps of the Little Indians to their list. Hayman is having practices each night this week, and expects to put his team on the field in top shape.

League umpires will be permitted to umpire in the spring exhibition games this year. Last year they were not called to the colors until the regular season opened. The employment of league umpires, however, is a matter of choice. The clubs are not required to have members of the National League staff in the exhibition games in the South and West.

Home Broadcasting.

The question of baseball and radio came up when representatives of the National Association of Broadcasters appeared to tell of efforts to set a high standard of ethics for radio reports of baseball games. This is a matter for action by individual clubs.

The club presidents also devoted some time to a discussion of rules, the rule giving a base runner two bases on a ball thrown int oa dugout coming in for somewhat extended debate. It may be clarified by specifying that a runner may advance "one and one"—the base he is going to and one more. The present rule permits an advance of two bases from the spot the runner has reached when the wild throw was made.

ON THE

It MAY be a little early to suggest that the tumble in the stock market will cause a decrease in baseball attendance next season, but for some reason the minors are watching their financial steps. At least two good leagues have taken steps to reduce expenses in 1930.

The International has reduced its player limit from 25 to 21 and lopping off four salaries will make a big difference in the overhead. The Three I has cut its salarly limit from $4,500 to $3.750. The I. I. I. will also have more than its share of Sunday double-headers next year. The International, too, will offer bargain days, for the AA loop plans to schedule 168 games in the same length season that the American Association will play 154, and much shorter than the major league season, which also is 154 games.

The International League managers are shaking their heads over the problem of reshaping their player plans to obesive a limit of 21 men. Most of them already have the 25 they were permitted to carry last season and decisions as to where the releases should go will not be easy.

Some of the managers may have to jump in and play a position. Steve O'Neill, Tris Speaker, Billy Southworth and Fritz Maisel can play, if need be, but it will be hard on Derby Day Bill Clymer, Eddie Holly and Harry Minchman if they are called on in a pinch.

HEN the All-American rosters are completed and names for football's hall of fame compiled, it might be well to have a place made for Joe Gembis, All-American place kicker. The Michigan player may not be the besk back in the conference, but he has been able to make his feet behave when Michigan needs points. Last year he kicked a field goal to send the Wolverines out in front of Illinois and a place-kick from the field and point after touchdown accounted for a 10-to-7 victory over Iowa. This year his two kicks for points after touchdown sent Harvard sway from Ann Arbor in defeat and later another points after touchdown was the difference between Michigan and Minnesota at Minneapolis.

RAIG WOOD, the blond siege gun of Bloomfield, N. J., is certain to spend a pleasant golf winter. The long hitting young pro is "out of the red" with the season just started. He has won two of his three starts and if he does not take another first prize all winter, his books will show a profit. Wood is one of the game's most powerful sluggers from the tee, but most of the time he knows where the ball is going. He is a threat in any competition he enters, and, off to a good start, probably will make his presence felt in the long trek from California to Florida to North Carolina. He had to come from behind to win in Honolulu, but was eaqual to the task.

DDIE WITTMER, great Princeton half back on a poor Tiger team, was a great figure as he played his last college game against Yale. The Pittsburgh boy gave his all in the losing right of the Tiger against the Bulldog and late in the game he was out on his feet. Gamely he continued to try, finally remaining in the game after his coach and trainer had decided that he had done enough.

He remained prone after one of his diving smashes into the unyielding Yale line and Keene Pitzpatrick, Princeton's veteran trainer, came out to render first aid. After kneeling a moment over the courageous lad, the silverthatched Fitzpatrick was seen to shake his head. About this time, Head Coach Bill Roper signaled the referee for permission to come on the field and when the official nodded assent, the coach joined the trainer in the buddle over the prostrate Wittmer.

Suddenly the two slipped their hands under the great plane in the state of the prostrate wittmer.

and when the official nodded assent, the coach joined the trainer in the buddle over-the-prostrate Wittmer.

Suddenly the two slipped their hands under the great player and lifted him to his feet, at the same time directing his feet toward the sidelines Wittmer, for the first time sensing their purpose, drew back and stubbornly shook his head. Wrenching himself free, he glared at Fitzpatrick as the well-loved trainer just as stubbornly insisted that he should come out. Finnally Eddie, seeing that nothing was to be gained by arguing with Old Keene, turned to Roper and with hands held out in entreaty begged the coach to let him play. Roper seemed to hesitate and finally, bowing to the plea, took Fitzpatrick instead of Wittmer by the arm and walked away.

A few minutes later Eddie had to leave. The spirit was willing, but the fiesh was weak. As he left the field, the Princeton and Yale stands joined in giving him a great cheer. It was deserved. Don McLennan, whose great running practically won the game for Yale, was the heroic figure of the day, but Wittmer was the tragic one. No one played better football in his closing game than did Wittmer. Princeton's line-up did not include enough Wittmers.

The only other heavyweight who would make a plausible match for Mr. Sharkey at the present stage of his professional advancement is Max Schmeling, who happens to be politically ineligible to fight for the Garden Corporation in New York, Florida er in the corporation's dominions beyond the seas by order of the New York prize-fight commissioners. CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 11—An Irish gentleman by the name of Chuck Collins is being halled as the wonder coach in the Southland these days. For this man Collins is the boy coach—he is only 26—who has been the chief tutor for the University of North Carolina Football Team that has smashed so many records this year.

A check-up reveals that the Tar-heel Team, with 346 points, now ranks second in the Nation's sooting, preceded only by Southern California with 400 points, and leads the Emand South; that it has eat a new all time scoring record for University of North Carolina teams, with an aveiage of 34.6 points a game, as compared with the 32-point average made by the 1914 team; that it has won nine of its ten games, the only loss being to Georgia by a 19-to-12 score, and that it has won more Southern Conference games than any other team.

Let-Up Cost Tarheels Dixie Title.

It is generally conceded that but for a let-up in one quarter of the Georgia game, the Tarheels would today be hailed as Southern cham-

The 1929 Tarheels beat Wake Forest, 48 to 0; Maryland, 43 to 0; Georgia Tech, 18 to 7; V. P. I., 38 to 13; South Carolina, 40 to 0; Davidson, 26 to 7; North Carolina State, 32 to 0; Virginia, 41 to 7, and Duke, 48 to 7. They lost to Georgia, 19 to 12. The defeats of Maryland, V. P. I., Virginia and Duke were by the largest scores any Tarheel Team has ever piled up on these rivals.

So much for scoring records, for the central theme of this piece is Chuck Collins, a young man from Oak Park, III.

Collins is a product of Notre Dame.

Chuck Collins, a young man from Oak Park, Ill.
Collins is a product of Notre Dame, a pupil of the famous Knute Rockne, a pupil of the famous Knute Rockne, 1924, and Rockne will tell you today that this former pupil was one of the greatest ends ever to don a uniform for any school.

If in a communicative mood Rockne might also tell you about a most interesting moment in the life of his pupil and coach. Rockne didnot think so much of young Collins when he came out for the team at Notre Dame. He thought the youngster from Oak Park was capable of playing far better football than he had shown.

Coach Rockne proceeded to tell Pupil Collins that he considered the latter a pretty rotten player and admonished the latter to do better or get off the squad. There was no room on his squad, Mister Rockne explained, for men who cluttered up the path of glory that better men were anxious to travel.

Rockne's lecture got under Collins' skin and stayed there. So Rock thought he was a rotten player, did he? Well, maybe Rock was right. but he didn't think so. In fact, he was going to prove to Rock that the master was wrong.

Young Collins reasoned something like this: Rock says I have the goods, but that I haven't delivered. To quit the squad would be to prove conclusively that I haven't got the old "guts;" that I'm yellow. No, I'm not going to qut. I'll stick in there and fight and I'll show Rock a few things.

And that Pupil Collins did show Master Rockne "a few things" is clearly indicated by the great record that Collins made at Notre Dame.

Collins came to the University of North Carolina in the spring of 1926. The Tarheels at that time were in a footpall slump. They were winning the majority of their games, but they had not produced a really great team since the famous South Atlantic championship outh of 1922. North Carolina was winning Southern Conference basket ball titles galore, and a Southern track championship was ference basket ball titles galore, and a Southern track championehip was ready to be harvested, but the football team wasn't kicking up much dust in Southern competition. The alumni were beginning to set up a howl, and Head Cosch Bill Fetzer, who had a sizable income from his Breward estate, and consequently didn't have to depend on coaching, chose not to fight back and instead handed in his realignation. Bob Fetzer, his brother, who had been Bill's chief assistant, quickly let it be known that he was not a candidate for the Job.

The others are the Indian Nawab, of Bhopal, and four Britons — Maj. Atkinson. Capt. "Pat" Boark, John A. E. Traill and Wing Commander Wise.

On the handicap ratings, Britain could muster a 36-goal team as compared with an American maximum of 35, composed of Hitchcock, Guest, young Earle Hopping, Eric Pedley or Averill Harriman, Special to The Washington Post. sgrove. Pa., Dec. 11.-Su hanna Alumni will invade the Crusaders' cage on Friday evening to help pry off the 1929-30 basket-ball season. This game is an annual affair and, in the past, has been exciting and interesting. Quite a number of the old stars have been heard from and have stars have been heard from and have promised to return for this game. Among them is Johnny Auten, who starred for the Orange and Maroon several years ago: Earl Thomas, a former three-sport star, who is now coaching at Mifflinburg, Pa.; Pete Bolig, present coach at Selinsgrove; Wilfred Groce, Yarrick Schoch, Ralph Witmer, Poster Benfer, Wayne Daubenspeck and Harold Polmer, all residing in Selinsgrove. Bill Rhinehart, of Sunbury, Adam Bingman, of Troxelville, and T. R. Kemmerer, of McAllisterville, will also return for the scrap. The varsity has been practicing daily, and competition is keen for the positions. Several freshmen have good chances of breaking into the line-up and are going to give the veterans a hard fight to hold their positions. A merry battle is being waged for the center position left vacant by the graduation of Tommy Dixon. Palmer, Gerhardt, Shaeffer and Dreibelbis are the leading candidates, and each one will probably see action against the Alumni.

BASKET BALL As Champions Play It

How should preliminary basket-shooting practice be conducted? Answered by MAURICE KENT. Basketball Coach, Northwestern Uni-

Such practice should take place during the first several weeks of the season and should be persisted in throughout the entire season. There should be three bails at every basket so there will be lots of shooting aird lots of action. This makes for a general liveliness and good morale The importance of having this good morale during the opening practice sessions can not be overemphasized. Have about six or seven men shooting at each basket. They should shoot and "follow-in" to make the second shot, and let them shoot from all different angles, both running and standing.

By R. J. ATKINSON. PFICULTIES that have arisen Difficulties that have arisen concerning the selection of the members of the Washington bowling squad which is to face the Connecticut All-Stars at Hartford, Conn., on December 28 and here at a later date, were partially ironed out by the local promoters yeaterday. Howard Campbell. national singles champion, who was named earlier as a member of the Grand Palace Valet Shop Team which is to face the New England pin sharps, has been dropped from the team list but will face Jack White in the singles matches at Hartford and here.

the doubles and team matches, however.

Flacher and Campbell explained that the singles matches will be rolled at Hartford, Conn., on December 28, and here at the Lucky Strike alleys, where Campbell is major domo, on January 4.

Rinaldi is undecided on what alleys the doubles and team matches will be rolled here. He is also in communication with Frank Barbour, the Hartford promoter, requesting that the date of the local singles and doubles engagements be postponed from January 4 until January 11. It is his opinion that the matches will be witnessed here by a larger number of fans if they are held after the close of the special holiday tournament season.

With the exception of selecting a place and date for the local end of the team and doubles duels, Rinald has declared all other arrangements final. He is considering staging the doubles and team events at the Colisseum, but has made no definite decision.

A lively demand is reported for short-term securities as important sources of investment buying await the anticipated easing of money after the pressure of the holiday demand is relaxed. $65,000,000 New York Loan.

Considerable interest was shown in the sale by New York City of a $65,000,000 issue of I to 50 year 4½ per cent bonds and corporate stock to a large banking syndicate on a bid of 102,3467. The group, headed by the National City Co., the First National Bank of New York, the Bankers Co. of New York, Guaranty Co. and Brown Bros. & Co., subsequently made public offering of the $38,000,000 block of bonds at prices to yield 4.10 to 4.30 per cent, while the $27,000,000 50-year stock was offered at 104,50.

The price obtained by the city was better than had been anticipated. Bidding was keen and ten tenders, amounting to $265,553,500, were submitted. The successful bid gave the city a premium of $1,526,657. Offering of the securities, representing the largest municipal offering of the year, had been scheduled for late in October, but was postponed because of unfavorable market conditions.

On the whole, the list of domestic bonds was inclined to ease, aithough losses were minor. Changes of a point or more either way were fairly numerous, but came out on small turnovers. In the rails, declines of about half a point in Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, Burlington 4½s, Norfolk & Western 4s, and Union Pacific 4s were balanced by advances in New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s, New York Central 3½s, Northern Pacific 5s, St. Louis & Southern first 4s and Missouri Pacific 5s

HARDEGREE SLAYING STORY CONFIRMED

Version of How Prof. Johnson Met His Death Receives Corroboration.

FOUR WITNESSES TESTIFY

Atlanta, Dec. 11 (AP.).—Four witnesses today had confirmed the voluntary confession of Elwell L. Hardegree that he had been with Prof. A. H. Johnson, Hartwell, Ga., school teacher, on June 29, when Johnson was sian, and Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole said Hardegree's story of how he killed the educator was authentic in many details.

Hardegree, who first gave his fession to the Constitution Monday night, is now in jail here awaiting grand jury action. The grand jury previously had indicted J. W. Wikle, an itinerant carpenter, for the crime, and Wikle is still being held with-out bond.

Identified By Four Witnesses Identified By Four Witnesses.

Witnesses who have identified Hardegree as Johnson's companion on the night of the slaying are A. W. Holmes and three negroes. Ed Powell, Chester Rogers and Boisy Palmer. Holmes and Palmer told police they saw Johnson and Hardegree enter a store together and buy a can of pickles. Powell and Rogers separately today pointed to Hardegree in a line-up of prisoners as the man with Johnson when they accompanied them on an automobile ride in search of liquor

After checking Hardegree's story of the killing of Johnson, Chief Poole declared he did not see how Hardegree could know so many "little details unless he was with Prof. Johnson."

Johnson."

The chief clew on which police had to work immediately after Johnson's killing was the story that the educator's companion had a black eye. Wikle is said to have had a black eye on the night of the slaying. Hardegree said he had a black eye as a result of an altercation with J. J. Griffin, an internal revenue inspector, who called at a cigar company where Hardegree was employed as a cigar maker.

Now Under Federal Indictment.

Now Under Federal Indictment. Hardegree is now under Federal dictment charging assault on a overnment officer while in dis-indictment charging assault on a Government offacer while in discharge of his duties.

According to the confession of Hardegree, he first met the professor on the night of June 29 and they rode around in Johnson's car while drinking. They had an argument, he said, over who should drive and it led to a fight. Hardegree said he picked up a brick from the floor of the car and struck the professor on the head, after which he left the automobile and went home.

Hardegree said he neither knew Johnson's name nor that he had killed him until reading the papers the next day.

PAIRPAX BUREAU OF THE POST. P. O. Box 245, Vienna, V Phone Vienn

At the meeting of the Fairfas County Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night there was much discussion of the law relative to the Syear assessment of all real estate in the State This assessment will the State This assessment will made next year. Under the old in the state. This assessment will be made next year. Under the old law the land assessors were appointed by the court and their salaries paid by the board of supervisors. The new law requires the assessments to be made by the commissioners of revenue who in previous years only assessed the personal property, and no provision for an increase in salaries in proportion to their additional work is made, nor were any funds provided for the hiring of assistants to make the levy. Under this law the county supervisors can not appropriate additional funds to aid the commissioners. The result of this situation is that the commissioners, in most of the sections of the State, have made the statement that under the new law and existing conditions it would be almost impossible for them to make any reassessment, so they merely expect to copy the assessments made last time.

Will Seek Law Modification, Would Be Largest Marketing

FARM BOARD TO DIRECT pproval of a plan for establishment of the largest cooperative market in the world was received today by the

Will Seek Law Modification,

Will Seek Law Modification.

The chamber last night instructed President Edmund H. Allen to call a meeting of the board of directors in the near future to discuss the question with State Senator Frank Ball and Delegate-elect Leon L. Freeman, relative to having the law passed by the last legislature modined in the manner of assessing real estate. The new legislature convenes the second week in January.

This discussion was led by F. Shield McCandlish who stated that this county should spend more than $5,000 to make a fair and just assessment of its lands and that the assessment should be made by a board of three persons; namely, a farmer, builder and realtor and a board of reviews to sit at the court house in Fairfax at a designated time to allow taxpayers the opportunity to protest any grievanes before the assessments were made final. In making the assessments, he said, there were two questions to be considered: First, the present inequalities—that is, one man's property being assessed low; second, the system now employed of assessing sentatives of cotton cooperatives and leaders of the cotton business.

The agency—strictly a marketing bureau—will be organized by the Government, backed by the Govern-ment, and its policies directed by the Government's farm board. The plan was agreed upon today at a cotton congress here. Alexander Legge, chairman of the board, said Legge, chairman of the board, said the American Cotton Growers Ex-change will be reorganized and in-corporated by the Government for $30,000,000, which is $10,000,000 more than was granted for organization of than was granted for organization of a grain marketing agency.

Stock in the association will be sold to cotton growers, and the law will restrict sale of the stock to farmers only. There are more than 2,000,-000 cotton growers in America, and the board hopes to organize and, enlist all in the agency.

Government control of the organization will be indirect, as the farm board is not allowed to hold stock in such corporations. The various State exchanges will give notes to the equalities—that is, one man's property being assessed high and his neighbors, assessed low; second, the system now employed of assessing property at about one-third or one-fourth its cash value which causes a high tax rate, which is very mis-leading.

The chamber voted in favor of having the assessment made by a board of three persons and sponsored the movement to have all real estate assessed at approximately a fair cash value, accompanied by a corresponding reduction in the tax rates.

Indorses Supervisors' Action.

The chamber indorsed the action of the board of supervisors in their resolution asking the Standard Oil Co. to erect a building of colonial design on the iot recently purchased by them on the corner of Lee Highway and Payne street across from the courthouse. A committee consisting of Thomas R. Kotth, W. S. Hoge, jr., and F. S. McCandlish, was appointed to ask the oil company to place their building and tanks at a reasonable distance back from the present right of way, which would provide for the future widening of the Lee Highway through Pairfax. The chamber indorsed the action of

A resolution addressed to Governor-elect John Garland Pollard was unanimously adopted by the chamber, urging that Herbert F. Robert R. Buckley, chairman of the County Board of Public Welfare, thanked the chamber for its efforts in securing the appointment of such a board. Bishop Beauchamp, in his keynote address for the conference, outlined the situation in the world as viewed from a missionary standpoint and gave a brief resume of the duty of Southern Methodism in the face of world conditions.

"The church has in no sense reached the apex of the demand for support of missions," he said. "The need is ever increasing. To teach the world of God to men to the ends of the world is the supreme commission of the Christian church."

During the last ten years, he said, the church has faced a changing and a changed condition in every mission field, which calls for readjustments in the home church. Among these changes he mentioned the rise of nationalism, the growth of an indigenous church and the difficulty of financing the missionary program.
